THE NEW CHINESE BILL.

The Pacific Coast delegation have perfected the new Chinese bill, and it was presented to the House on Monday by Congressman Henley, of California. The bill has two sections covering matters that come within the scope of the old law. An amendment of Section 15 of the old law enacts that "the restriction provisions shall include all Chinese or Mongolians of whatever nation subjects, and from whatever country arriving in the United States." The amendment operates to upset the decision of the United States Circuit Court in Massachusetts, which allowed Chinamen to land because they were subjects of Great Britain and had resided at Hongkong, and makes clear the construction of Justice Field, who decided the opposite at San Francisco. Section 4 of the old law is amended by making more stringent provisions respecting the identification of Chinese returning on certificates. The amendment provides that no Chinaman shall be landed on a return certificate unless he is unmistakably the same who resided in the country prior to the passage of the original law. Another amendment requires Consuls in China to look after the issuance of certificates to traders, and inform their Government if the persons granted certificates by Chinese officials are bona-fide teachers, merchants, etc., mentioned as exempt by the old law from exclusion. The new sections were suggested by Mr. Sumner. They were designed to exclude the Chinese now employed on the Canadian Pacific Railway in British Columbia and who intend, when through, to cross into the United States through Washington Territory. About fifteen thousand Mongolians will be shut out by these provisions. The sections enact that all Constables and Territorial peace officers shall be created Deputy United States Marshals, with power to arrest and bring before United States Commissioners all Chinese entering the United States from British Columbia, and if found to be interlopers the Marshals are empowered to return all such Chinese to the place from whence they came.

AN INTERESTING TAX SUIT.

Under this head the Silver State continues the discussion of the Crutcher assessment. Had the editor read the JOURNAL's comments on the matter more carefully he probably would not have felt called upon to indulge in personalities nor exhibit quite so much temper. The JOURNAL did not state that Mr. Crutcher owns lands in this county, but that according to Mr. Crutcher's sworn statement to the Assessor he had paid $1,000 on lands situated in Washoe county, and on this $1,000 he is asked to pay taxes. In the same statement he returns 12,000 head of cattle in Washoe county, and on these cattle he is also asked to pay taxes. The JOURNAL took occasion to state in the beginning that Mr. Crutcher's well known character forbade the idea that he was attempting to avoid taxation, but was actuated by an honest conviction that the property belonged to Humboldt. Whatever Mr. Crutcher's idea of the matter may be at the present time he evidently considered the property in Washoe at the time the Assessor was around or his statements would have exhibited a different state of facts. If he changed his mind after the statement was made it would seem that the proper course would have been to have appeared before the Board of Equalization where, upon a proper showing, the matter could have been easily settled. It is not on lands in this county upon which Mr. Crutcher is asked to pay taxes, but simply his possessory title thereto, and if he owns no such property in this county none should have been returned, and if returned by mistake the Board of Equalization should have been asked to correct the error; and the same is true of the 12,000 head of cattle returned. It is to be hoped the matter may be amicably arranged without suit, but if not and the suit should be against the defendant, it will be neither "interesting" nor difficult to find property to satisfy the judgment.

Among those who are unusually active in preparing for the holidays is C. J. Brookins. He has a splendid display of holiday goods, and his candy factory is kept busy preparing sweetmeats for the holidays.

Issues of the Presidential Campaign.

The Chicago Daily News, whose editor is very close to Mr. Arthur, editorially outlines the issues of the coming Presidential campaign. It says: The key-note of the next campaign has been sounded by the Republicans, both in the call for the Convention and in the resolution adopted by the National Committee. In both papers particular stress is laid upon protecting all human rights in every section of our country and opposition to attempts to suppress human rights and free suffrage and honest counting of ballots in various States by methods of war upon humanity and civilization. The defeat of the Civil Rights bill and the sudden outbreak of intolerance at Hazelhurst, Miss., and Danville, Va., have been seized upon by the Republicans as demonstrating that the common law does not afford that protection to the negro which was sought to be insured. It is evident that the Republicans intend to use the unsettled, intolerant spirit recently—most unfortunately for their opponents—exhibited at the South. The same intention of making these outrages prominent is also exhibited in the recent actions of the Union League regarding Southern Bourbonism. This league is the largest and strongest political organization in this country. It has at its control millions of money, and has energy, shrewdness and brains enough behind it to make it terribly effective to accomplish what it proposes. The object of the league is to overthrow Bourbon misrule in the South by seeking the support of Southern white men, who will act in co-operation with colored voters to secure a fair count. To carry out such a proposition a committee will be selected, composed of nine of the strongest men in the country, who will act independent of the Republican National Committee to force Southern outrages to the front and mold public opinion at the North. That this committee will effect its purpose hardly admits of reasonable doubt. The war is not to be forgotten in the next Republican campaign.

The Pacific Coast Delegation and the House Committee.

It is not expected that the Pacific coast delegation in the House will obtain many prominent places on Speaker Carlisle's committee, which it is expected will be forthcoming the latter part of this week. Rosecrans will be Chairman of the committee on Military Affairs. It was reported that he had declined this place, but the report is unfounded. The Democratic majority being so large, there are a great many aspirants for Chairmanships, many of whom will probably be disappointed. Next to Rosecrans, it is expected that Glascock, who, with the former, voted for Carlisle, will fare best. The others, not having taken part in the Speaker-ship contest except against Carlisle, have been indifferent about asking favors of the new Speaker, and are prepared to accept whatever he gives them. Glascock has already been given the second place on the Committee on Mileage, and will probably get on the Committee on Commerce. Sumner desires a place on the Pacific Railway Committee, but it is not considered that his wishes will be gratified. The delegation, with the exception of Rosecrans, being composed entirely of new members, none ever having served in Congress before, they are not considered as having any claims worth mentioning. Cassidy expects to fare better, he having also been a supporter of Carlisle in his contest. The Chicago bill will go to the Committee on Commerce, which will be a particularly important committee, from a Pacific coast standpoint.

Senator Butler, of South Carolina, hardly agrees with his Southern Democratic allies, at least as to the continuance of the internal revenue system, and he has introduced a bill in the Senate to abolish the same. Should this bill become a law it would not be possible to reduce the tariff; on the contrary, it would be necessary to increase duties to enable the Treasury to meet the demands made upon it. Perhaps Mr. Butler intends in this way to head off Mr. Carlisle and his free-trade friends, who want the internal revenue system continued and the tariff duties reduced.

Governor-elect Robinson, of Massachusetts, will remain in Washington until the holiday recess. Before his departure he will be tendered a dinner by the Republican State Association of Massachusetts and other admiring friends. He is one of the "salt of the earth," and will make a Governor of whom his State may well be proud.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

Frank Leslie's. President Arthur's third annual message to Congress on the business of the nation has been generally commended by the newspaper press. No candid person of either party, we believe, can read it through without increased respect for the good sense and honest intentions of the author. The President's State papers have all been admirable. There is no doubt that they have done much to raise him in the estimation of the public. This document, like the regular, special and veto messages which have preceded it, carries internal evidence of Mr. Arthur's thorough and independent study of the leading questions discussed, not less than of his prudent and conservative judgment. The President thinks for himself and forms his own conclusions; and his intelligent, quick appreciation of the needs of the public service has more than once surprised those who were disposed to picture him as a rather easy-going Executive, glad to take his opinions ready-made from the advisers around him, and content on his own part to perform the outward duties of the office with dignity and decorum.

From the great mass of subjects of more or less urgent interest, but all requiring formal presentation to Congress, three stand forth as of the first importance to the country at this time. We refer to the question of the surplus and of diminished taxation, the Mormon problem, and the proposed constitutional amendment, enabling the President to veto separate items of an appropriation bill, while approving the measure as a whole. In each case the accompanying recommendation is explicit.

Right at the heels of the outrageous River and Harbor bill of last year, the President sounded an effective warning in regard to the dangers of an overflowing Treasury. He pointed out the imperative necessity of reducing the Government's revenues, and suggested definite measures to that end. Congress followed his advice to a certain extent, and the result is seen in the figures supplied by Secretary Folger. For the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1881, the surplus had amounted to about $100,000,000, and for the fiscal year 1882 it reached $145,000,000. Last year the measures of reduction had not taken effect, and the surplus was about $133,000,000. We now learn from the Treasury estimates that the excess of income over expenditure during the present year is likely to be $35,000,000. Next year, figuring on the basis of the existing tariff and internal revenue laws, it will reach $100,000,000 again. In other words, the legislation of the last session has cut down the surplus fifty or sixty million dollars. Is it wise to attempt further reduction by attacking either the tariff or the internal taxes, while the effect of the present laws is not exactly measured? This is the most important question now before Congress. The President's opinion is positive. He thinks that the present session is not the time for any radical revision of the existing laws.

The Mormon question, as we elsewhere show, is becoming very urgent, and is likely to occupy a considerable share of public attention during the next year or two. How shall the Government deal with the polygamists? It is a well established fact that the legislation already directed against the evil has proved an utter and hopeless failure. New plans for suppressing polygamy will be plenty in Congress this winter. The President expects no substantial results, however, from efforts on the present line of attack. The treatment which he suggests is heroic, namely, the repeal of the Act establishing the present Territorial Government and the assumption by Congress of direct responsibility for the state of affairs in Utah. That would practically be declaring Utah under martial law, so far as the impending war against polygamy is concerned.

We have reckoned veto reform as one of the three leading topics in the President's Message. We are convinced that no more important question demands consideration by Congress. Numberless jobs go through to enactment, and millions of dollars pass out of the Treasury into the pockets of designing individuals, simply because the President of the United States has not the power which the Governor of New York exercises. The proposed amendment would almost double the value of an honest Executive.

The Coming Holiday Recess.

Speaker Carlisle now intends to make his announcement of committees Friday, and it is expected that the holiday recess will begin with the adjournment on that day and continue until Friday, January 3d, or until the beginning of the following week, with the probabilities favoring the latter. It is not likely that the House will assemble more than once between Monday and Friday, then only as a formality. The machinery of the Senate will be put in order during the week.

A Female Governor.

As a compliment to Mrs. Dunway, for her untiring efforts in behalf of the cause of woman's enfranchisement, the leading politicians of Washington Territory, irrespective of parties, are petitioning President Arthur for her appointment as Governor of the Territory.

The appointment of Morrison, of Illinois, as the Chairman of the Committee of Ways and Means is confidently predicted, with Hurd, of Ohio, and other Free-Traders, to constitute the majority of such committee. This, of course, will be but right and proper. Morrison was Carlisle's lieutenant in the recent canvass, and on a free-trade issue the latter was elected. It will also be a manly way to throw down the gauntlet of battle and force the fence-men to take position on this vital question.

The Tariff on Wool.

Cor. Pacific Rural Press.

In your columns of Nov. 10th some gentleman, claiming to have made his living out of wool growing, takes the time and pains to put before your readers his private opinions as to the tariff imposed upon foreign wools. He says he does not approve of the action of the Wool Growers' Association in trying to restore the tariff on imported wools. Then he goes on and tries to show, in a one-sided argument, how the wool business has had its ups and downs. In the first place, he says, the extra duty imposed upon imported wools in 1867 gave temporary prosperity to the wool growers, and at the same time it prevented our manufacturers from purchasing certain grades of foreign wools, thus confining them to the manufacture of a few grades of goods. Then again, he says, 50,000,000 people, the best livers in the world, were shut up to themselves, and no foreign wools being sold here, a surplus was created in foreign markets, and England, with free wool, could undersell our merchants in our own markets in all articles manufactured from wool. This, he says, helped to glut our already overstocked market, not only in manufactured articles, but also in raw wool.

So we clearly see the gentleman errs not only in one point, but is very poorly posted as to the difficulties which made the woolen trade somewhat depressed at the period mentioned. He has the population of the United States greatly exaggerated, according to the statistical reports of 1867, and he should know that a high liver will not stand aside for a few cents tariff if he wants material manufactured of a certain grade of foreign wool. Also, he admits that our markets were overstocked at this time; and what in the name of justice could we have done with the raw wool had there been no tariff at that time?

As to England underselling us in our own market, it was not the price of wool, but the advantages of cheap labor that enabled her to come to our door and take the trade from our merchants.

High livers or low livers, no matter which, are bound to buy the best article for the least money, and as long as England and other foreign countries have the advantages of cheap labor, they are bound to take the lead in competing for the outside trade of the world.

Should the United States be as thickly populated as is England we would then say free wool, and be able to compete with her for the woolen trade of the world, but as long as there is so much undeveloped and unsettled country for immigration to bring to a state of cultivation, we will have to protect our own industries and not try to overreach ourselves in the commerce of the world. Our country is yet in its infancy, and to try to do too much would be ruinous to us; we should advance gradually, and as we advance, fortify ourselves against our opponents. The wool industry, like all other industries, has its seasons of prosperity and decline. Let us look out for our own interests, and as charity should begin at home, let us protect capital that is trying to build up and advance industries in the United States.

Should we increase in population and make advancements in proportion the next seventy-five years as we have the past, then we will be able to have labor and advantages for manufacturing second to no country in the world. When we arrive at that period, then the ideas advanced would not be opposed by a Wool Growers' Association, but would be favored by all; but to undertake to do that which we are not able to entirely out of the question, and upon reconsidering the matter the gentleman from Sonoma county will see the fallacy of his arguments.

All the wool growers of the United States are anxiously hoping that at the meeting of the 45th Congress our representatives will restore the tariff if not raise it above any notch yet reached. Then a bright future will beam on the woolen industries. Wool Growers.

A. A. Smith and James Mayberry returned to Reno yesterday morning. They will only remain six weeks, and then go back to Montana, where they have done well, and have lots of work in the future. The JOURNAL welcomes them back to the old stamping ground.

Frank and Clear.

Having Admitted the Strength of the Evidence, an Eminent Physician takes Logical Action.

The following letter tells its own story. The signature will be recognized as that of the Physician-in-Chief of the De Quincey Home, and author of "Drugs That Enslave," "The Hygienic Injection of Morphine," "A Manual of Nursing," and many other popular and valuable special medical works:

131 West Seventh Street, New York, August 11, 1883.

MESSES. SEABURY & JOHNSON, Gentlemen:—Like most of my profession, I am cautious about pinning my faith to any new medicine or curative agent. But your BENSON'S CAPSULE POROUS PLASTER has broken through the barriers and won its way to my good opinion. My attention was first called to it some eight months ago by a patient of mine. Although I was well acquainted with the superior excellence of your other plaster and antiseptic dressing, made especially for the profession, the Benson's was comparatively new to me. I had heard, however, of its merits as a remedy, in cases of Lamé Back, Local Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Congestion of the Bronchial Tubes and Lungs, Dyspepsia, Torpid Liver and the like affections, and have since begun to experiment with it personally. I find BENSON'S CAPSULE PLASTER an exceptionally cleanly plaster to use, and rapid in its action.

Many tests of its qualities, made in my own family and among my patients, have convinced me that there is no other single article so valuable for popular use, nor so helpful in the diseases I have named.

Should you desire to do so, you may use my name to that effect.

Very truly yours,
H. H. KIMM, M. D.

A Change of Managers.

It is officially announced that Henry Villard has resigned the Presidency of the Oregon Transcontinental and Oregon Railway and Navigation Company, and that W. Endicott, Jr., of Boston, succeeds him as President of the Oregon Transcontinental Company and T. J. Coolidge, of Boston, as President of the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company. Coolidge also enters the Oregon Transcontinental Board of Directors. The reason assigned for the resignation of Villard is that he became impressed with the conviction that it would not be proper for him to continue President of all the companies whose management he has heretofore directed after the completion of the Northern Pacific. Villard some weeks ago urgently pressed Endicott to accept the Presidency of the Oregon Transcontinental Company. A syndicate has taken a part of the bonds owned by the Oregon Transcontinental, amounting to $9,000,000 or $10,000,000. This will relieve the company of the larger part of the debt of late so troublesome. A report of the condition of the company will be made in a few days. It is positively asserted, however, that the report will show on hand an aggregate of stock fully equal to the amount held at the time of the annual report in June last.

A Washington correspondent has the hardihood to write that Mr. Blaine, since his arrival at Washington has so far expressed himself on the Presidency as to say, I am not a candidate, but I will go further and say that I would not accept the nomination if it were tendered to me.

The Philadelphia Times thinks that when the free trade battle is joined that Oregon and Nevada will be Democratic, but that California and Colorado will not be moved to any political change by the issue. The Philadelphia Times will learn in due time that so far as Nevada is concerned it is in error. Labor is better paid in Nevada than in any other State in the Union. The principle of protection as applied through Miners' Unions is the bulwark of labor here. Another thing our contemporary should understand. The Chinese question has made us all protectionists on the Pacific Coast. Our intelligent working classes can perceive no difference between importing cheap laborers from China and importing the cheap products of the pauperized labor of Europe. Hence we are all protectionists.—Enterprise.

Maj. Olough went out to the Antelope mine yesterday, with the view of remaining some time.

Geo. Avery was out on the street yesterday. He does not enjoy having the rheumatism.

One of the quietest and pleasantest hotels in Reno, for either transient or permanent guests, is the Palace.

Mrs. Mary F. Poor will leave in a day or two for Oakland to spend the Winter with her daughter, Mrs. Irvin Ayres.

During the proprietor's absence in San Francisco the Lake House was thoroughly renovated and a number of convenient improvements added, and it is now one of the best appointed hotels in Reno.

RED RIDING HOOD.

The Rendition of the Operetta by the Little Ones.

The operetta of Red Riding Hood, which was presented at the Nevada Theater last evening by the preparatory department of the public school, was listened to by a large and enthusiastic audience. The children were all in good voice and went through their respective parts in a manner that showed thorough appreciation of the spirit of the piece. This version of Red Riding Hood was somewhat changed from that of the old established story, the grandmother and child being saved from death by a valiant woodman, who appeared at the right time to destroy the rapacious wolf. Little Kittie Elliott, who took the part of the child heroine, sang all of her numbers (some of them quite difficult) with clearness and expression, and her acting in the various scenes was very good for one so young. The representation of the contented, thoughtful mother by Ella Murray was well worthy of praise. The child has a quick ear for melody and her voice is strong and sweet. The short solo by Pete Murray, one of Red Riding Hood's play fellows, was well applauded. The scene between Buttercup (Carrie McIntosh) and Red Riding Hood was very interesting. Their singing was light and spirited. Many flowers appeared to cheer the little girl on her way through the woods, among them the "Rose" (Nona Seaton) who tenderly urged the loiterer to hasten while yet 'twas day. A group of dainty "blue bells" sang their song of greeting and adieu in a way that pleased every one. The little tots seemed to enjoy every note of their selection. The free and jolly woodman as presented by Harry Wilson was quite an enviable fellow. Well sung was the duet between Red Riding Hood and her rescuer. Sammy Williams, the wily and ferocious wolf, took his part as well as a happy, goodnatured boy could imitate the actions of an ugly illtempered beast. His make-up and expression of ferocity was something terrible. Lola Remington made a very nice looking old lady, as she sat in her low rocker, knitting and singing of olden times. The semi-choruses sang their numbers with taste and expression; very sweet the invisible music seemed to the listening child. The full choruses were rendered with life and spirit from first to last, and right heartily was the applause that greeted the last happy "goodnight."

Night of Way Through Walker
River Reservation.

The Speaker pro tempore laid before the House on the 11th the following message from the President of the United States; which was read, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

I transmit herewith a communication of the 3d instant, from the Secretary of the Interior, with the draught of a bill "to accept and ratify an agreement made by the Pah Ute Indians, and granting a right of way to the Carson and Colorado Railroad Company through the Walker River reservation in Nevada," and accompanying papers in relation to the subject.

The matter is presented for the consideration of Congress.

CHESTER A. ARTHUR.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, Dec. 10, 1893.

Jumping a Mine.

The Carson Tribune is informed that Saturday when Edward Harris visited his mine, located about two miles southeast of Washoe, he found four men armed with rifles in possession of the property. They told Mr. Harris that they had been sent there by a man named Flanigan, who instructed them to hold the mine at all hazards and to commence work on it that day. Mr. Harris has been the owner of the mine for more than two years, and has done much towards developing its resources. He at once returned to Virginia to interview Mr. Flanigan, but the result of the interview has not transpired:

Nevada Lodge No. 5, A. O. U. W., Monday evening elected the following officers for the ensuing term: Dr. Dawson, M. W.; R. W. White, Foreman; Fred Kline, Overseer; F. McRae, Recorder; D. McKay, Treasurer; W. D. Wagar, Financier; W. N. Snider, Guide; E. Bates, I. W.; H. P. Neffigan, O. W. The installation will take place at the next meeting, on the first Monday in January.

Tha Ophir election will take place to-day. The stock advanced to 16% yesterday, and proxies are in demand at $5 per share. The stock will probably recede back to the old figures, before there will be another contest for control.

G. W. Raine, who has been under the care of Dr. Lane in San Francisco for some weeks, is reported getting well. His son who went below with him returned yesterday morning.

Fortunate Escape.

Mrs. James Ferguson had a fortunate escape Saturday afternoon from what might have been a very serious accident. All along the south side of Commercial Row, next the buildings where the sun never strikes at this season of the year, the street is frozen hard and in many places covered with ice. Saturday Mrs. Ferguson was out for a horseback ride and came slowly galloping down Commercial Row and when nearly opposite the First National Bank her horse lost its footing on the ice and fell flat on its side. The fall threw the lady partially out of the saddle, but like a flash she seized with one hand the pommel of the saddle and with the other on the ground raised herself back into the saddle at the moment the horse regained his footing and raised to his feet bringing the rider up with him as nice as a pin, and with a gentle tap of the whip galloped off as gracefully and as unconcernedly as though nothing whatever had happened.

Duck Valley Land.

The Speaker pro tempore laid before the House on the 11th the following message from the President of the United States; which was read, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

I transmit herewith a communication from the Secretary of the Interior, of the 3d instant, with draught of bill for the payment of certain settlers in the State of Nevada, for improvements on lands in Duck Valley in that State, taken for the use and occupancy of the Shoshone Indians, with accompanying paper.

The subject is presented for the consideration of Congress.

A Good Brick.

Chamberlain had a chunk of purple ore from Pyramid lying on his counter last week which weighed just 18 pounds. While in San Francisco he got Thomas Price to reduce it, and this morning brought home a red brick containing 74 cents in gold, 56 cents in silver and enough copper to make it weigh 73 ounces. That makes the ore worth $151 in gold and silver, and $100 in copper per ton. It worked 28 1/2 per cent. copper, but it contained more.

Buffet Cars.

The first of the new buffet cars, built at Pullman, Illinois, is on exhibition at San Francisco. It is intended to be placed on the road at once, and will be followed by others. The buffets are the next thing to a regular dining car.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhoea, regulates the stomach and bowels, eases wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. feb. 21-sw-lyr

A healthy body is indispensable to a vigorous mind. A bilious and dyspeptic man, whose blood drags sluggishly in his veins, can neither think clearly nor act wisely. Ayer's Pills will stir up the liver, excite the stomach and bowels to activity, open the pores of the system, renovate the blood, and restore a healthy tenement for the mind.

INYO COUNTY MINES.

San Francisco Bulletin.

Mining in Inyo county, California, has been prosecuted to some extent for many years, but heretofore under great disadvantages, owing to the rugged character of the country and its distance from the base of supplies. The county is on the south-westerly boundary line of the State, south of Mono county. It is a comparatively wild region, rocky and volcanic in its character, though containing some good agricultural lands that have produced fruits and small grain in abundance and of fine quality. The county is known to be well supplied with mineral deposits, the principal ones being argentiferous galena, gold, copper, sulphur and tin. Thus far the principal mining districts are Cerro Gordo, Kearsage and Darwin. The Cerro Gordo mines have furnished from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 to the world's supply of bullion. It was here that the first deposits were thought to be pure silver, instead of argentiferous galena. The Cerro Gordo mine has been worked down to the 900-foot level, and is still a promising claim. The Ignacio mine is also a prominent claim in the same locality.

THE NEW RAILROAD.

The recent completion of the Carson and Colorado Railroad will do much to develop the mineral resources of Inyo county. This is a narrow gauge road. It starts from Mound House, Nevada, between Virginia City and Carson City, and after crossing the Nevada line penetrates the most favorable portion of Inyo county, terminating at present at a station called Keeler, on Owens Lake, 300 miles from Mound House. The principal stations on the road are Belleville, Candelaria District, where are located the Northern Belle, Mt. Diablo, Holmes and other silver mines and the famous borax deposits. Then comes Bishop Creek, around which there are said to be 60,000 acres of as good agricultural land as can be found anywhere. Next comes Big Pine and Montezuma. At the latter place there are some good mines and smelting works, with large supplies of ores. Next comes Independence, where there are a number of good mines and a 30-stamp mill. Lone Pine is the next station to the south, and there are several claims there. Next comes Swansea, where smelting works are being erected. Then Cerro Gordo, and finally Keeler, where the Owens Lake Mill and Mining Company has a 10-stamp mill in operation.

THE DISTRICT BEYOND.

As before remarked, the road beyond has been completed from Mound House to Keeler. This places that comparatively distant and hitherto inaccessible point on Owens Lake into direct communication with the more settled portions of the country. Leaving Keeler in the morning, a man is able to breakfast the next morning at Reno and dine on that day at San Francisco, thus placing this city within about forty hours of the present terminus of the new narrow gauge. It is understood that the road has been largely built by D. O. Mills, the Superintendent of the road is H. M. Yerington. Mr. Keeler, of Owens Lake, is now in this city. He informs us that it is the intention of the projectors of the road to continue it to the Colorado River, passing probably through Panamint Valley and Death Valley, and strike a point on the river several miles from the Needles. Darwin is 24 miles southeast of Keeler, and will form an important station on the route as extended. There are several well known mines at Darwin, including the New Coso, Defiance, Lucky Jim, Christmas Gift and others; also two furnaces. Some rich copper deposits have also been discovered in that locality, with ledges 40 to 50 feet wide and average 20 per cent. pure metal. Plans for working these deposits are now under consideration.

At Chase & Thyes' saloon will be found choice liquors of all kinds. It is kept in first-class style in every respect, and is one of the oldest stands in the town. Everything is comfortable, and it affords every accommodation that can be desired.
